Department of Political Science

01. THE IMPORTANCE OF POLITICAL SCIENCE :

The importance of Political Science lies in the fact that all of us live within political systems and we are affected by the changes in the global political economy. With the advent of globalization, there has been a concomitant rise in the interest taken by the people of the world in understanding the political systems of other countries. Hence, Political scientists become valued and important as they provide the lens through which we can understand the global political economy. There are many universities that provide graduate and higher-level degrees in political science and in recent years, because of the renewed interest in political science as a field of study, there are many takers for these courses.

02.SCOPE OF POLITICAL SCIENCE :

The scope of Political Science is vast and experts have divided the field of political science into five sub-disciplines that are Political theory, Public administration, Comparative politics, International relations, and Public law. It needs to be noted that these sub-disciplines cover the entire gamut of the modern political economy and provide the basis for the study and understanding of how the global political economy works. The study of the matters concerning the allocation and distribution as well as the transfer of power is one of the main preoccupations of political scientists. The success or otherwise of the governance structures is gauged by political scientists who examine the multifaceted and multilayered factors at work that contribute to good or bad governance. The scope of the political scientists has now been broadened to include the realm of the study of the democratic elections across the world. In other words, with the explosion in the political systems all over the world, political scientists, and their scope of study has been considerably enhanced.

03.Establishment of the Department:

About the Institution: The Marathwada region was under the influence of the Nizam of Hyderabad and the people were ignored. Later on, in accordance with the linguistic policies, Maharashtra was separated and in 1959, the Marathwada Shikshan Prasarak Mandal was established at Aurangabad, the central place of the Marathwada, which was possible due to the dedicated involvement of visionaries Mr. V. R. Sawant and Mr. Vinayakrao Patil. The base of the establishment was and is still the same, to provide knowledge to the poor and ignorant. The motto “Duritanche timir jawo”, “let the darkness of ignorance be driven away”, is the foundation of the institution. Following the motto and its mission, the foundation lead the path of progress for the society in the region with numerous colleges, schools and various types of career oriented courses offered in them.

About the College : Yeshwantrao Chavan College was established in June 1972. As soon as the Department of Under Graduate Studies in Political Science was established at the same time and started catering education to first year students of Arts, commerce & science through Second Language & Optional Subjects.
