Department of Public Administration

(UG & PG)

• INTRODUCTION:

As a discipline Public Administration originated and developed in USA in 19 TH century onwards. In India, we should bear n mind administrative studies preceded the formal instruction in the subject of Public Administration in the colleges and universities. The teaching of Public Administration in India began as part of teaching in the subject of political science in 1930s. When Lucknow University first included Public Administration as a compulsory paper in MA Political science syllabus. Madras University was the first in the country to introduce a diploma course in Public Administration as early as in 1937 Nagpur University was the first one in India to setup a separate department of Public Administration and local self government in 1949. With this, Public Administration acquired full a academic legitimacy for the first time in the country. In 1954, the Indian Institute of Public Administration was established in New Delhi on the recommendation of the American expert in Public Administration Paul H. Apple by's report. In 1958 the Indian School of Public Administration was setup as a part of Indian Institute of Public Administration Lucknow University was also the first Institute post graduate Degree course in Public Administration, 1959. In 1987 Public Administration was included as a full independent subject in the list of subjects for the civil services examination. Public Administration discipline was introduced as one of the Co-equal optional at under graduate level with the establishment of Kakatiya Government College in 1972. Public Administration is a subject which stands on its own. It easily blends with any subject in order to strengthen the other subjects. Most of the parliamentary democratic countries including India recognize the importance of the subject. Therefore colleges realizing the importance of the subject have included it as a subject in their curriculum and one teaching the subject to their students. As long as parliamentary democratic values persist in India the importance of Public Administration will remain paramount in Academic Institutions.

Yeshwantrao Chavan College was established in June 1972. As soon as the Department of Under Graduate Studies in Public Administration was established at the same time and started catering education to first year students of Arts Optional Subjects.

• ABOUT DEPARTMENT

The Department of under graduate studies in Public Administration was established in June-1972. Being a department in the backward area, of 'Marathwada' in Beed dist. It has played an important role in developing higher studies and research in Public Administration. The department keeping in view the changing social norms, it has been kept flexible enough to incorporate various requirements of the students in the context of contemporary society.

Public Administration is the most potential subject for designing, planning and development process of India. The development goal can be achieved and national productivity can be increased only when the manpower is properly recruited, trained, administered on professional lines. From the beginning the department has been trying to change student strength as a human resource.

Today Public Administration is the main subject in the art faculty. More than fifty students take this subject every year.

The central library has sufficient text books, reference books and also journals like Indian Journal of Public Administration, Journal of Governance & Public Policy, Indian Journal of Public Health, Yojana etc.

The members of our department are not only active but they participate in every activity of the college. Due to our active participation, our subject is made most likely amongst the students.
